My Life Has Been Transformed

Esther hails from Khobiri village in traditional authoulirity Nthiramanja. Esther looks after two orphans from her late daughter. She used to live in adelabidated house made of unburnt bricks, mad floor, glass thatch, and the house had cracks. Life of Esther and her grand children was in danger because the house she was living leaked heavily during rainy seasons. The time we visited her we found the other wall collapsed it was fortunate that it happened during the day.

In July 2013 Esther occupied a new house from Habitat for humanity under the global village progrmme. She explained her life in a new house. “My life has been transformed; life was hard in the old house when it was raining. When it rained, we used to drain water from the old house to make it dry so that we could sleep, our things could get wet especially food but now this is history to our family”, Said Esther. She also said that the house has brought joy to the family because the kids are not suffering from cough and colds as they used to be in the past. Furthermore Esther said that the kids have now brighter future because they will finish their education since they are living in a good house.

“May God bless the visitors [Team] who built this house for our family, may you also do this to others”. Said Esther.

Thank You !!!
